

Good Morning, Cynthia

Your carb-forward, pre-workout breakfast — built for strength & body recomposition.

Breakfast is your most carb-loaded meal of the day because it fuels your training. Each option below is built around eggs for protein, fruit for energy, greens and avocado for recovery and healthy fats. Whenever possible, choose organic, whole, minimally-processed ingredients — they carry more nutrients and fewer additives.

 Timing matters: eat this breakfast 1 to 2 hours before your workout so the carbs are ready to power your session.

Why each breakfast is built this way

Protein first. Eggs give you ~20–23 g of quality protein to preserve and build lean muscle.

Healthy fats. Avocado, almonds and pecans slow digestion and support hormones.

Carbs to train. Banana, berries and grapes are the fuel your body burns during your workout.

Fiber & greens. Spinach and broccoli add fiber, vitamins and antioxidants for recovery.

How to enjoy it

Choose organic & whole. Prioritize organic produce and eggs. Rinse fruit and greens well before eating.

Space your meals. Leave about 3 to 6 hours between meals so you arrive hungry, not starving.

Keep it un-fried. Avoid fried or breaded foods — poach, boil, steam or lightly sauté instead.

Hydrate early. Start drinking water with breakfast to hit your daily goal.

THIS WEEK'S GOALS — First stage
DAILY STEPS 8,000 – 10,000 steps every day	WATER 1.5 – 2 L about 51 – 68 oz per day

BREAKFAST

Pick one option every morning — you're free to choose. Portions & macros are approximate; your coach will fine-tune them.

HIGHEST CARB

Pre-Workout Fruit & Egg Bowl

 10 min. | Kcal: 470

3 pc · Eggs, boiled or poached
100 g (1 pc) · Banana
60 g · Blueberries
60 g · Raspberries
80 g · Grapes
10 g · Almonds & pecans, chopped

Best option right before training.

Protein: 22 g Carbs: 55 g Fat: 20 g

1. Boil or poach the eggs to your liking.

2. Add the banana, berries and grapes to a bowl and top with the chopped almonds and pecans.

3. Enjoy the eggs on the side. Eat 1–2 hours before your workout.

WHY IT WORKS

Eggs — complete protein + healthy fats that protect your muscle.

Banana, berries & grapes — fast, natural carbs that fuel your training session.

Almonds & pecans — crunch, fiber and healthy fats for lasting energy.

Green Egg Scramble + Fruit

🍳 12 min. | Kcal: 440

3 pc · Eggs
40 g · Spinach
60 g · Broccoli
70 g (½ pc) · Avocado
80 g · Grapes or ½ banana, on the side

Protein: 23 g Carbs: 30 g Fat: 27 g

1. Lightly sauté the spinach and broccoli in a non-stick pan with a splash of water or a little olive oil — never deep-fried or breaded.
2. Add the beaten eggs and scramble until just set.
3. Serve with sliced avocado and a side of fruit.

WHY IT WORKS

Eggs — protein to build and hold lean muscle.

Spinach & broccoli — fiber, iron and antioxidants for recovery.

Avocado — healthy fats that keep you full and balance hormones.

Fruit side — natural carbs to top up your pre-workout energy.

Avocado & Berry Power Plate

🍳 10 min. | Kcal: 460

2–3 pc · Eggs, over-easy or poached
70 g (½ pc) · Avocado
60 g · Broccoli, steamed
40 g · Spinach, fresh
60 g · Blueberries
60 g · Raspberries
10 g · Pecans

Protein: 20 g Carbs: 32 g Fat: 28 g

1. Steam the broccoli and lay the fresh spinach on the plate.
2. Cook the eggs over-easy or poached — avoid frying or breading.
3. Plate with avocado, berries and a sprinkle of pecans. Eat 1–2 hours before training.

WHY IT WORKS

Eggs & avocado — protein plus healthy fats for steady energy.

Broccoli & spinach — greens for fiber, vitamins and digestion.

Berries — antioxidant-rich carbs with a gentle sugar load.